Our Success Story

Mercury support Agent Provocateur

With unique collections made to be noticed, designer Agent Provocateur needed an integrated system for their store that wouldn't steal the limelight. Mercury Systems stepped up to the challenge of meeting the brief.

Agent Provocateur is a world-renowned lingerie brand, operating in over 30 countries with over 600 employees. With fans such as Kylie Minogue wearing their creations, their flag-ship stores are their window to the boldest, high-end designs and their interiors are the backdrop to show these off to best effect, with their striking colours and intricate details.

They needed a fully integrated security system to protect their property and staff that wouldn't deter their genuine customers. Mercury Systems met all of their requirements and were instructed to design, supply and install a fully integrated electronic system including:

- CCTV
- Intruder Alarm
- Access Control
- Door Entry Systems
- Roller Shutters

Working alongside their interior designers to tight deadlines, Mercury was able to keep their system undercover to deliver an easy-to-use, flexible and sustainable system. The ability to meet expectations with an aesthetically pleasing design which offered the highest level of security left Agent Provocateur delighted with the result.
