

Partnership with Mercury is a roaring success

Joe Macari's property houses a showroom full of supercars, they definitely didn't want to see going up in smoke. Mercury Systems were on hand to ensure that fire prevention was no longer a burning issue.

Joe Macari has been racing, selling and servicing Ferrari and Maserati cars for over 25 years. Operating in South West London, their used car sales business, Ferrari and Maserati aftersales as well as racing and accident management, has gone from strength to strength, delighting customers with their showcase of sleek, powerful and classic cars that fulfil the dreams of enthusiasts throughout the country.

While it is the contents of the showroom that grab all the headlines, the building services infrastructure and fire protection system also needed to be of the highest quality. Joe Macari understood the risks associated with the business and when a new fire detection and alarm system needed to be upgraded, Mercury was their supplier of choice to design, specify, install and commission a fire detection system that could offer staff, customers and stock the highest level of protection.

Accredited to the industry standard BAFE, Mercury's team expertly installed:

- Integrated fire detection and alarm system to BS 5839
- Bespoke maintenance contract
