Our Success Story

Mercury showcases AV and smart technology

This private home in North London was at the forefront of modern living. With sleek interiors and luxury décor, its smart technology was an integral part of the design and lifestyle.

When entrusting a supplier to come and transform your home, you will expect technology and workmanship of the highest level. The brief was a home cinema which provides them with an exceptional room to enjoy and entertain themselves when they want to unwind and watch the latest releases.

Every step of the project was sensitively managed, ensuring that the finished home cinema was as the client envisaged and installed to the correct standard. The lighting design was realised in such a way that the space was made functional as well as creating the right ambience and complementing the décor. The automation aspects of the home cinema were extensively tested and programmed to ensure a smooth and long product life. Mercury installed:

- Home Cinema
- Surround Sound
- Smart Lighting
- Cinema Chairs

Their home now boasts a bespoke, high specification home cinema that has not disappointed. Working closely with the designers providing an end-to-end service from concept to completion, including specification, supply and maintenance support.
