Our Success Story

Mercury thinks outside the box for unique offices

Every area created was designed to simultaneously inspire creativity within the Unruly team. Working with main contractors Base, Mercury was tasked with matching their forward-thinking design with their security solutions for the new group offices.

Unruly, the award-winning global technology platform for social video advertising has moved to its new home within the Whitechapel building. This 25,000 sq. foot of exceptional space features a virtual forest, an allotment, a separate star wars themed C-3PO, Stormtrooper and Vader rooms that are decorated in solid colours of gold, white and black. Not stopping there, it also includes a club house, a gym and a large tea-point area to cater for the team.

Unruly needed security solutions that would meet its requirements to secure the property with state of the art technology. Mercury worked closely with main contractor Base, to ensure seamless integration within this flexible space, built to allow multi-purpose use by staff and visitors. They installed:

- Access control systems
- HD CCTV
- Intruder Alarm
- Maintenance

The work put in at design stage and their ability to work to tight contractor timings, ensured that everyone was delighted with the outcome.
